By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — A Swiss jet airliner with 80 persons aboard exploded in the air shortly after takeoff from Zurich today and crashed in flames. Witnesses said there were no survivors.

Four minutes before disaster struck, officials reported they had lost contact with the Swissair Caravelle twin-jet.

Aboard were 74 passengers and a crew of 6, Swissair officials reported. Whether any Americans were on the plane was not known.

The plane was bound for Rome and planned a stop at Geneva.

The airliner crashed west of the village of Duerrenesch at 6:15 a.m. (1:15 a.m. EST). It gouged out a huge crater and disintegrated.

The plane narrowly missed the village.

Duerrenesch, a settlement between two small lakes, lies about 30 miles west of Zurich.

Villagers said they heard an explosion, looked up and saw the blazing plane coming down over the houses. Some said the big craft grazed the roof of two farm buildings before crashing.

Swissair officials confirmed reports from the scene that there were no survivors.

A Swissair spokesman said there was no indication of the cause of the accident.

Swissair was checking over copies of tickets to establish a complete passenger list, expected to be issued later today. Under new international regulations, companies are no longer obliged to keep complete passenger lists for each flight.

The passengers were believed to include 22 married couples from the Swiss hamlet of Humlikon who were on a trip organized by a farming cooperative. Most of the other passengers were believed to be Swiss.

Rescue workers found debris and bodies scattered over an area of several hundred feet. The blazing wreckage lighted up nearby farm houses.

Mrs. Emil Luescher, wife of a Duerrenesch baker, told newsmen she and her family "first thought the cork factory across the road had exploded. The whole house shook, all the window panes went to pieces."

"The plane came down about 200 yards from our house. When we got there we saw only a part of the fuselage sticking out of a deep crater. The rest of the plane was strewn in bits and pieces over the houses in the area."

The crash was the third accident involving fatalities in operation of the French-built plane.

The first crash, at Ankara, Turkey, Jan. 19, 1960 killed 41 persons. The second at Rabat, Morocco Sept. 12, 1961, killed 77.

Officials at Sud Aviation which builds the twin-jet craft, said official investigations absolved the planes of operational blame.

European Unity Sponsor Dies

METZ, France (AP) — Robert Schuman, 77, often called the father of European unity, died today after a long illness.

Schuman laid out the plan for the European Coal and Steel pool, a production and marketing organization linking France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

The same countries later formed the Common Market or the European Economic Community. Promoters of European unity hope the Common Market will develop into a Europe welded together politically as well as economically.

The Schuman plan was unveiled in 1950, when its author was foreign minister of France.

Woman Held for Aiding in Escape

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Three of the five prisoners who escaped from the Garland County Jail Monday night were back behind bars today and a Negro woman was arrested Tuesday for smuggling saw blades into the jail.

Lennis Hudson, 30, surrendered quietly late Tuesday after telephoning the sheriff's office that he was ready to give up. Two of the escapees—Louis Childers, 41, and Claude R. Hughes, 25, both of Hot Springs—were caught shortly after the break.

Still at large were Ralph Mackey Fitzhugh 34, and Robert Hall, 41, both of Hot Springs.

Hudson, a Negro of Hot Springs is charged with first degree murder in the slaying of an elderly Negro tailor here. Fitzhugh, Hall and Hughes face burglary charges. Childers is charged with robbery.

Mrs. Lucille Sellers, 21, was arrested on the smuggling charge Tuesday. Deputy Sheriff Talmadge Mayben said her husband, William Sellers, was in the jail on a rape charge but he did not escape because he was too fat to get through a window.

The escapees sawed bars from a second floor cell window and lowered themselves to the ground on ropes made from blankets.

A. E. Spates, 84, of McNab, Dies

Azell E. Spates, 84, retired farmer of McNab, died yesterday in a local hospital. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include his wife, two sons, Claud of McNab and Lloyd Spates of New Orleans; a daughter, Catherine Spates of New Orleans and a sister, Mrs. Lela Bland of Saratoga.

Herndon-Cornelius will announce arrangements.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mrs. John H. Evans, 46, mother of Jacquelyn Evans, a Negro student at integrated Hall High School, filed Tuesday as a candidate for the Little Rock School Board post held by W. C. McDonald, a candidate for reelection. J. A. Fureigh, a businessman, also filed Tuesday against McDonald who was on the board in 1959 when schools were reopened under a plan of gradual integration.

A Little Pre-School Examination

EARLY THIS MORNING A STAR PHOTOGRAPHER caught this Little Miss doing some pre-school examining at a grade school merry go round. The little lady was premature in several ways — first, she was so anxious to get to school she forgot to dress; second, registration doesn't start until Thursday; and third, she has several years to go before she will be old enough to register. But she'll have some good experience at the merry-go-round. Incidentally, the photographer did take her home.

Everything Seems Colorful to the Female Bob Hope Who Finally Hit the Big Time

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Phyllis Diller, who dresses to look like an ostrich on a three-day binge, is perhaps the only woman in America with five children who also wear white blue and rose-colored contact lenses.

"My goal is to be a gracious woman," she remarked matter-of-factly. "But I decided that if I was to be an idiot broad, I might as well make it pay."

Miss Diller certainly has made it pay. As "the female Bob Hope," master of the one-line quip, she has become a reigning queen of the night club circuit.

"Last year I paid taxes on $260,000," she said. "This year I made to make a half million."

Then she is confident she will go on to a million two million etc., etc.

"But progress is mathematical," she declared during a rest between her frantic nightly chores at the Hotel Americana's Royal Box. "There is no point in being impatient."

A good standard lady comic is a rarity in show business, and Miss Diller is currently the most successful in the field.

"It sounds like a housewife's dream—to have a roomful of people listening to her," she said.

"This Is Your Life — Teddy Jones," was the topic of an outstanding Hope Kiwanis club program Tuesday at Hotel Barlow in which Mr. Jones was awarded the above bronze plaque for 17 years of outstanding service to the local club.

Three speakers, George Frazier, Dean Murphy and Dr. Jim McKenzie heaped praise, adoration and honor on Mr. Jones as each discussed various parts of his life.

Frazier got the program underway with the surprise announcement of the day's topic, and then told of Mr. Jones' early childhood at Pine Bluff where Teddy quarterbacked the famed Pine Bluff Zebras in the middle 20's, coached at that time by the late Roy Hammons.

The team had such an outstanding record that it lay claim to the National High School football championship and was challenged in a post-season affair by a Dayton, Ohio, team with a long string of victories. The game was played in Dayton, and Pine Bluff ran wild, winning by more than sixty points.

Mr. Jones excelled in basketball, baseball, track, was an outstanding debater and won high scholastic honors to close out an illustrious career, and then turned down several University and college scholarship offers to follow his famed coach to Otachita college.

At Otachita, it was a repeat performance. He again won honors as an outstanding performer in football, basketball, track, baseball, as a debater, and college scholastic leader.

Dr. Jim McKenzie took over as the second speaker, and told of Mr. Jones' career as a World War II veteran; as a teacher of the Century Bible Class since 1946; as a high school and college athletic official for 28 years; activities as a 32nd degree mason; as manager of the local employment office since 1948 and as the winner of several awards for outstanding work and efficiency in this field.

President Dean Murphy then told of his accomplishments as a 17-year member of the Hope Kiwanis club in which he has held every office in the club, and for the past ten years has served as secretary.

Mr. Jones responded with a brief acceptance speech of the club's bronze plaque and told the club he was deeply moved, honored and grateful. His two twin sons, George and Dan, were special guests.

As the program neared the conclusion, Mr. Jones was given a standing ovation.

Kennedy Pleas Are Ignored by Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)

The government of South Viet Nam has turned a deaf ear to President Kennedy's pleas for reforms to rally public support for President Ngo Dinh Diem and win the war against Communist guerrillas.

While a government spokesman welcomed Kennedy's pledge of continued U.S. aid in the anti-Communist war, he said Tuesday the President's criticism of Diem's domestic policies was "quite wrong" and "based on inadequate information."

U.S. officials in Washington privately voiced disappointment over the negative reaction to Kennedy's plea for reforms. The Saigon stand was considered a blow to a solution of deteriorating U.S.-Vietnamese relations.

The American President appealed to the Vietnamese government Monday to rally public support by changes in policy "and perhaps in personnel."

He apparently had in mind Diem's brother-adviser Ngo Dinh Nhu. Washington believes Nhu was responsible for the anti-Buddhist crackdown Aug. 21 when martial law was imposed in South Viet Nam. A Roman Catholic, Diem has denied Buddhist charges of religious discrimination.

The Vietnamese government spokesman noted that "Kennedy said the United States should not withdraw its support of Viet Nam and that is heartening." U.S. military and other aid to Viet Nam is running $500 million a year.

Washington reacted sharply to a story published in Saigon that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency had plotted to overthrow the Diem government with the help of dissidents in South Viet Nam.

State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips denied the charges, which appeared in a government-backed Vietnamese newspaper, the Times of Viet Nam. He likened the story to a fiction thriller.

The State Department acknowledged that the U.S. embassy in Saigon had rejected a formal request from South Vietnamese authorities for custody of three Buddhist monks who took refuge in the embassy Sunday.

The three include Thich Tri Quang, top organizer of the Buddhist anti-government movement.

The embassy turned away a fourth monk who appealed for asylum Tuesday. "We're just too full," an embassy official explained.

Boy Run Over by Truck Not Badly Injured

A pickup truck driven by T. D. Byers backed over or against a year-old Negro boy named Wayne Johnson late yesterday on East Haywood Street.

The child was rushed to a local clinic by Mr. Byers where an examination revealed the boy wasn't seriously hurt.

Investigating City Officer Milam and McCulley said the child crawled under the truck and Byers failed to see him when he started the vehicle.

Birmingham Is Integrated With No Interference

By DON MCKEE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Two Negro pupils entered Graymont Elementary School today for enrollment at the white school without any interference from Gov. George C. Wallace, who had sent state troopers into the city on the eve of Alabama's first public school integration.

The pupils, brothers, were escorted to a side entrance of the school by four Negro men.

In a surprise move, the segregationist governor sent not one state trooper to the school ground, which was heavily guarded by about 60 city and county policemen.

The Negroes went into the school shortly after white pupils began enrolling.

At the time, Wallace's press secretary said the chief executive was in his mansion in Montgomery, 100 miles away.

The Negroes entered the building at 8:05 a.m. to climax what had appeared to be an impending showdown between Wallace and both federal and local authorities, who had asked him not to interfere.

He apparently decided to accede to that request, but there was no immediate statement from him.

White women picketed on the sidewalk in front of the school as the Negro pupils made their historic walk through a doorway on the east side of the red brick building about 100 yards away.

Their enrollment was the first public school desegregation below college level in Alabama, where the first break came in 1956 and again last June when the federal government forced down Wallace at the University of Alabama.

Some white spectators and small groups of Negroes watched from street corners as white parents, most mothers, led their children to school.

Some of the pupils and parents were balked by the pickets. Others brushed past the pickets and went into the school for enrollment.

Three other pupils were to enroll at two white schools in the city, but they had failed to do so as the hour approached.

About 15 minutes after the Negroes got into the Graymont school, the National States Rights party, with Confederate flags flying and horns blowing, began a motorcade along the highway which runs in front of the school.

"Keep Alabama White" read the placards they waved.

There appeared to be about 35 cars in the motorcade. Police diverted them at the intersection in front of the school. Earlier they had been at West End High School.

As the motorcade was diverted, its cars eased into the Legion Field parking lot directly opposite the school and the riders formed on the street corner.

Legion Field is the municipal stadium.

Wallace sent his troopers into this steel city Tuesday despite an unprecedented request of the City Council that he keep his forces out and a warning from the federal government.

The Justice Department said in Washington: "The schools will be opened and the Negro students will attend them."

In this crossfire from local and

White Child Enrolls at NLR Negro School

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A white mother of five enrolled her 6-year-old son in an all-Negro elementary school today and he began attending classes.

Mrs. Yvonne Fitts, 26, said she had been trying for two days to get her son, Steven, into the McCalmont school in the Pulaski County School District just northeast of North Little Rock.

L. O. Blathers superintendent of the school, said Mrs. Fitts drove up to the front of the school today and let the boy out of the car. Blathers said he enrolled the boy and put him in class.

"He said first that he didn't want to go to school here," Blathers said. "Then he said he did, so we enrolled him. He lost his lunch money and I'm going to give him some money."

Blathers said the boy was in class and was "doing fine."

He said Mrs. Fitts would have to come in later and sign enrollment papers.

Mrs. Fitts attempted to enroll the boy Tuesday, but said she was turned away. School officials denied this. They said Mrs. Fitts and the child left while they were preparing entrance papers.

A window was broken in the boy's bedroom Tuesday night, Mrs. Fitts said, and eggs were hurled at the front of her house.

She said she had received several threatening phone calls, including one from a woman who told her: "You're going to wind up just like Evers."

Medgar Evers, a field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Mississippi, was shot to death several months ago.

Mrs. Fitts said most of the callers were older women.

She said she enrolled her son in the Negro school because it was only one mile from her home while the nearest white school was 10 miles away. She said the boy had made the decision and that he could leave McCalmont anytime he wanted to.

The child is in the second grade. He attended integrated Jacksonville Elementary School last year.

Mrs. Fitts said she would take her son out of McCalmont if there were any danger to him or her other children, Adolpho Fidel, 5, Virginia, 4 and twin sons Kenneth Jay Jr. and Keith Jon 2.

Mrs. Fitts said she had discussed her move with her husband, an airman stationed in Alaska, and that he had told her to make her own decision, "as long as the boy doesn't get hurt."

Mrs. Fitts said she had not notified authorities of the "broken" window or telephone calls because she felt this would be like "breaking a window and then hiding behind mommy's dress. I started this thing," she said, "and I've got to finish it if I can."

She said the window glass shown

Convinced Nikita Has New Policy

An AP News Analysis

By BORIS BOSKOVIC

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Premier Khrushchev's tour of Yugoslavia has convinced many here that Moscow has changed its strategy for dominating the Communist world.

In every speech, Khrushchev insistently argued the necessity and advantages of economic cooperation among Communist countries.

Students of Communist affairs believe a primary goal of Khrushchev's visit was to draw Yugoslavia into closer economic ties with the Soviet Union and other countries of the Eastern bloc.

In Stalin's day, Moscow controlled its satellites and other Communist nations to do so up until the situation has greatly changed in the past few years.

Yugoslavia escaped from Moscow's orbit in 1948, the only Communist nation to do so up until Stalin's death.

Since then, Albania and Asian Communist nations led by Red China have adopted independent and anti-Soviet lines. Signs of disobedience also have recently appeared in Romania.

Observers now believe Moscow is trying to regain control through subtle economic means.

The idea is to dominate Comecon, the Communist answer to the European Common Market. By centralized planning of production, Moscow could impose its will and ultimately wreck the economic independence of its members. This idea is behind Romania's discontent. It resented being assigned to a largely agricultural role in Comecon.

If one country under Comecon's so-called "socialistic division of labor" specializes in a certain product or line of products, it will become fully dependent upon the Soviet Union and its neighbors for those items it does not produce. Export possibilities to the West also would appreciably diminish with the curtailment of variety in goods produced.

The loss of economic independence would mean the restoration of Moscow's political domination. Khrushchev's speeches in Yugoslavia repeatedly stressed his desire for Yugoslavia to join in this cooperation.

Yugoslav Communists made it clear they want an observer post in both Comecon and the Common Market.

Yugoslav trade is almost equally distributed among Western, Communist and nonaligned countries of Asia and Africa. The emphasis is on developing further trade with new nations and continuing the upward trend with Western countries.

Many Southern Schools Integrate

MEMPHIS (AP) — City schools in this Deep South cotton capital have quietly desegregated another grade, the fourth. Except for Negro pickets at five all-Negro high schools, the scholastic year began without incident Tuesday.

Four patrolmen were posted at each integrated school while 280 Negro students attended the first day of classes at 14 previously all-white or partially desegregated schools.

When desegregation was started two years ago, hundreds of policemen formed protective chains around the four white schools.

Despite the picketing, the boycott attempt against the staggered school day program seemed to have failed in all but one Negro school.

Negro pickets urged pupils to ignore the staggered classroom hours and attend school only during usual hours.

Leaders of the boycott, which is sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said if it fails they will attempt sit-ins at white high schools.

Ham Won't Give Up His Party Duties

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Everett A. Ham Jr., assistant to Republican National Committeeman Winthrop Rockefeller, said Tuesday he would not give up his duties because some party leaders were sniping at him.

This was Ham's response to questions about reports that action by the GOP state Executive Committee limiting Rockefeller's powers actually was aimed at Ham.

Ham has been Rockefeller's aide since October, 1961. He reportedly antagonized some Republican leaders in carrying out Rockefeller's orders to increase party membership and revitalize county organizations.

Rockefeller said Tuesday he would wait to hear from grass roots Arkansas Republicans before deciding how to react to the committee's action which restricted him to the duties of a national committeeman.

He said he was expecting mail on the matter, which apparently stems from an argument between factions which want to support Rockefeller's brother Nelson for president next year and those who favor Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater for the GOP nomination.

Sikes on the American Team

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A team of United States amateur golfers, including Richard Sikes of Springdale, Ark., is top-heavy favorite to win its seventh consecutive Americas' Cup competition in a series of matches with par-hustlers from Mexico and Canada Thursday and Friday.

The matches will be played over the par 36-72 layout of the Wakonda Club with its 6,896 yards of roller-coaster fairways.

A trio of three-ball sixsomes will be played both mornings and six singles are scheduled for both afternoons. In the sixsomes each country will be represented by a two-man team with the players hitting alternate shots.

In both the sixsomes and singles, each country will oppose the other two. A point is given the winner of each 18 hole match.

The U.S. team is captained by Billy Joe Patton of Morgantown, N.C.

She said she was becoming increasingly aware of the danger to her and her children because of her actions, but that "someone has to pay the price."

Florida's File Large Brief

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Attorneys for Andrew and George Florida of Osceola filed a 67-page brief in U.S. District Court Tuesday in the government's prolonged tax case against the brothers.

The government has asked Judge J. Smith Honey to return judgments totaling $8,106,077 against the brothers and 20 corporations owned or controlled by them.

It contends that they owe that amount in taxes, penalties and interest for the years 1951 through 1954.

The brothers deny that they owe any taxes but concede that some of their corporations owe taxes totaling $156,000 due to poor bookkeeping.

Henley heard testimony in the case last year and the first set of briefs were filed in April. The government filed a supplemental brief a month ago and the defense followed Tuesday with its reply.

One more government brief is due in the case. The judge said he doubted he would reach a decision in the case until after the fall term of court.

THAT GLEAM IN HIS EYE

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: What makes a man unfaithful to his wife? I know a middle-aged man who is healthy, wealthy and foolish. To flirt is one thing, to carry on the flirtation into an affair is quite another matter.

This man has offered me tempting propositions to be alone with him, all of which I've turned down. Now he calls up less often and appears more impersonal, yet there is still that bedroom gleam in his eye when we meet. Why should he be so unsatisfied with his life as it is?

Does philandering come naturally to all men? Have the sacred vows of marriage no meaning for them? Given the right wife would they be monogamous or is infidelity a habit? When a girl dreams of marriage as a blissful union between one man and one woman—a holy relationship to be cherished as long as we two lived. Was I being naive? So it would seem from my recent experience with this man.

I like his wife. She is attractive, has a splendid sense of humor. Do you suppose she knows of his philandering and, if so, how does she reconcile herself to it? They have a 16-year-old son whom both adore. I tried to channel his thinking more toward the home and family and less toward me. Please set me straight in my thinking. —In-between

P.S. Just as I signed this the phone rang. It was that man. If he is to keep his sanity he said he must see me. Weakly I told him to drop by around five. Was I right or wrong? He sounded desperate.

Dear In-Between: The antics of a busy male adulterer, or the athletic pursuits of a sex-obsessed young bachelor, might well compel us to wonder whether monogamy isn't really out of date, and the answer is that down through the ages human beings have tried everything else and monogamy remains the best guarantee of an orderly society.

As long as there is sex—and where would we be without it—there will be sexual attraction, and as long as there is attraction, there will be temptation, regardless of monogamy.

This doesn't mean that society, or the individual wife, gives "straying" a green light morally or legally. But men (and women) are flesh and blood and every now and then, when they think nobody is looking they will try to run through the red light.

Society waits at every corner to write out a ticket and levy a fine. And if society is asleep on the corner, the human conscience lurks behind every tree.

In your weakness in telling this man to drop by around five o'clock, and in your doubt about whether you were right or wrong, you have answered, for the most part, your own large questions about the nature of the questing male outside marriage. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Attentions from Married Men."

Dear Helen: Ever since the seventh grade I wanted a home of my own for a certain reason. My mother refused to listen to my plans.

The reason I want it is that she took the only thing I loved, a dog, and said I could never have it while in "her" house.

I am now 21 and in another two years shall be a full-fledged teacher with a college degree. That thought has buoyed me up for them I should be able to possess a place where I could keep a dog. The other day I learned that my father only has a month to live. I overheard my mother tell my aunt that if he dies and I leave, she would commit suicide. I love her too much to hurt her. Is there an answer? —C. L.

Dear C. L.: When the time comes—not now—for your mother and you to make plans for a future which does not include your father explain to her how you've always felt about a home of your own.

Suggest that inasmuch as you'll be independent financially you could live under a separate roof, but that for awhile you'd like to try living together on a cooperative basis if she would consider letting you fulfill your dream of having a dog.

If she agrees be sure you pick out the kind of a dog that will win her over and not be a nuisance. Just like humans, there are some dogs that can be companionable, and others a real pest.

If your mother makes the compromise, don't expect her to puppy-sit, or otherwise be responsible for the animal. You should take full care of it. I can't help but wonder what you planned to do with your dog while teaching school for six or seven hours every day.

Dear Helen: My first husband is dead. We were married 25 years. The four children I bore him are grown and married. Fourteen years ago I took a second husband. We adopted a little girl and were apparently very happy.

Now I find he is living with a foreign woman and has for some time been going from me to her! I want a divorce, alimony and the right to keep our adopted daughter. Does this sound unreasonable? My husband makes good money. The other woman will not give him up. —Despairing

Dear Despairing: If your husband is not willing to give up the other woman, you are justified in seeking a divorce lawyer. Talk over the whole situation with him, and then consult your lawyer.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cars with Super Shell sweep 220-yard dash

Unique acceleration test shows how one of Super Shell's 9 working ingredients works to give you quick power

Starting line. Ten brand-new Chevrolets are being readied for a 220-yard dash. This test was recently run to demonstrate how Super Shell works to give you quick power. Drivers were professionals. Test conditions for all cars were identical. Even engine temperatures were carefully equalized. The only difference was in fuel. The five dark cars used a gasoline we blended exactly like Super Shell, but without one of Super Shell's 9 working ingredients—without Pentane mix, an ingredient that helps deliver quick power. The five white cars used Super Shell with Pentane mix—the same Super Shell gasoline you can get at Shell stations. On signal, drivers floored accelerators and raced off at full throttle.

Finish line. All five white cars on Super Shell with Pentane mix beat all five dark cars without Super Shell's quick-power ingredient. A telling demonstration of Super Shell's ability to help you get quick power.

Besides Pentane mix, Super Shell contains TCP*—for power, mileage, longer plug life. Anti-knock mix—to fight all kinds of engine knock. Alkylate—to control high-speed knock. "Cat-cracked" gasoline—for smooth power. Butane—for fast starts. Anti-icer added in cold weather. Gum preventive—to keep carburetors clean inside. Platformate—for extra mileage. Altogether, 9 working ingredients to make your car work better. Stop at the clean white Super Shell pump.

Trademark for Shell's gasoline additive for ignition control. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2880212.

Mrs. Michael Warren Seimans

Miss Jo Ann Turnage and Michael Warren Seimans were united in marriage on Friday, August 30 at seven o'clock ceremony in the First Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dewey Turnage, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Henry Warren Seimans and the late Mr. Seimans. All are of Hope.

Dr. George Balentine performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white gladioli and baskets of white gladioli. The candles were lighted by Miss Martha Nell McLelland, cousin of the bride, and Miss Reid Jean Forrest of Searcy, cousin of the bridegroom. A program of nuptial music was played by the organist, Miss Dora Ann King, who also accompanied the vocal soloist, Mrs. James McLarty, Jr. She sang "Because" and "Whither Thou Goest."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of bridal opulence in acetate peau, fashioned with a molded bodice and long sleeves ending in lily points over the hands. The lace petal neck-line and shoulder points, along with garlands of lace on the controlled skirt, were enhanced with iridescent sequins. From a flat bow the skirt ended in a lace coil centered with a tear drop pearl. The bride carried white roses centered with white cymbidium orchids.

Miss Helen Jean Adcock of Shreveport, cousin of the bride, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Shirley Hartsfield, Laura Adams, and Jan Reinhardt. They wore identical frocks of turquoise peau de tulle, designed with a basque fitted bodice, elbow sleeves, and a piped scoop neckline. The "A" line skirt held a waistline bow and streamers. Each wore a wedding ring band of the same material and carried white pom-poms and English ivy. Miss Jamie Seimans, sister of the bridegroom, was the junior bridesmaid and was dressed in fashion similar to the other bridesmaids.

Little Miss Robin Rene McLelland, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. Another cousin of the bride, Master Glen Edward Williams of Texarkana, was the ring bearer.

The groom's best man was George Frazier. Groomsmen who also served as ushers were Joe Lingo, Richard Kitchens, Guy Watkins, Jr., and Tony McLarty. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Turnage chose an autumn rose silk tulle with matching accessories. Mrs. Seimans' mother of the bridegroom, wore a teal blue pure silk sheath with matching accessories. Each had a corsage of white cymbidium orchids.

The parents of the wedding couple entertained with a reception at the Hope Country Club following the church ceremony. Magnolia leaves, white gladioli, and candles were used as decoration of the clubhouse. Mrs. John B. Gardner, Jr. was at the door and introduced the guests to the receiving line. Mrs. James Ruthford of North Little Rock had charge of the bride's book.

Flowers carried by the bridesmaids centered the bride's table, where the tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. George Frazier and Mrs. W. M. Reinhardt and Mrs. Harry Hawthorne poured the punch. Stocks and pom-poms were seen on the groom's table, where Mrs. Don Kidd of Murfreesboro and Mrs. Thomas Compton served.

Assisting in serving the guests were Mrs. C. D. Lauterback, Miss Andrea Anthony, Miss Mary Gail McRae, Miss Suzanne Booth, and Mrs. Ray Duke.

For travel to New Orleans and the Gulf the bride wore a coral silk suit with matching accessories and pinned an orchid corsage at her shoulder. After their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Seimans will be at home in Arkadelphia, where both will be students at Henderson State Teachers College this fall.

Out-of-town guests of the wedding and reception were: Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Forrest, Sr. and Mrs. Shelby Forrest, Jr. and Shelly, Miss Irene Forrest, Miss Audrey Bolton, Miss Linda Lpu Burnett, all of Searcy; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams, Ricky federal authorities, the fiery segregationist governor said Tuesday night in a statement: "I shall continue to take whatever action I think is necessary to further the interest of all citizens of Alabama."

Wallace would not say whether he would be in Birmingham for a personal confrontation with the five Negro pupils seeking to enter three white schools in this sprawling city, still scarred from summer racial disorders.

Another unanswered question was whether Wallace's helmeted troopers would ring the schools to prevent desegregation.

City and county policemen were ordered on guard duty at the three schools facing integration under federal court order.

Wallace put state troopers in Tuskegee Monday to bar opening of the school which was to accept 13 Negroes.

He has not indicated whether he will halt the opening of Mobile schools where officials laid secret plans for registering two Negroes today at Murphy High.

Negroes went to jail during street demonstrations earlier in the year. At Graymont Elementary School about 350 pupils were scheduled to begin classes with two Negroes. Two other Negro pupils were to join about 1,500 white pupils at West End High. The fifth Negro was to enter Ramsey High, which expected an enrollment of more than 900.

White segregationists planned to demonstrate at the three schools with motorcades and pickets. At a rally of about 600 persons Tuesday night, Edward Fields of the National States Rights party said, "We're going to all the schools to see that these schools stay white."

Boone County, Arkansas, as created April 9, 1869, and the original name was "Boon." Some claim the county was named for Daniel Boone, Indian fighter.

Faubus Silent on Constitution
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Tuesday that he could live with either the present state constitution or a new one.

This was the governor's response to a speech by state Rep. Virgil Butler of Independence County who said Faubus opposed constitutional revision.

Butler said he figured the governor's position because Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem, an administration man, spoke against constitutional reform recently.

Faubus said he had made his noncommittal position on the constitution known to Butler. He said he had not informed himself on Van Dalsem's attitudes should not be construed as the administration's.

Butler has pumped for years for a constitutional convention. Faubus has never expressed much interest one way or another.

Faubus was scheduled to leave today for Bartlesville, Okla., where he will attend a four-state conference on tourism.

An 1,800-year-old Roman bridge at Alcantara, Spain, is still in use.

Auto Theft Trial Slated to Start

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Trial of two men charged in connection with a car theft ring operating between Akron, Ohio, and Hot Springs was expected to go to a U.S. District Court jury today.

Joseph Francis Newman, 59, of Akron, one of the defendants, denied on the witness stand Tuesday that he had been connected with such a ring. The other defendant, Forrest Cason, 54, of Hot Springs, did not testify.

Both sides rested their cases late Tuesday.

Newman testified that on the day he is charged with driving a stolen car from Akron to Hot Springs he was visiting his mother in an Akron hospital.

On cross-examination, government attorneys questioned Newman at length about his criminal record which includes convictions for burglary and grand larceny, breaking and entering and possession of burglary tools.

Eight men were arrested when the FBI announced breakup of the ring. Five pleaded guilty. The eighth defendant, attorney Sam Anderson of Hot Springs, will be tried later.

"I want to win, all right. But I hadn't figured on being forced to cheat," I told Daguerrias.
"Who said anything about cheating? You're goin' up against a papered horse, mister, a high-strung fidgety boll of blue lightning! At 600 yards this hide here of yours is going to start huntin' for a hole to fall into. Great gobs of fire! You call it cheating to try to give yourself a chance?"
"If you think so poorly of Granite," I said, "what's the matter with running that stud of mine at him?"
Daguerrias threw up his hands. "His pappy," I snarled, "beat Pan Zareta twice!"
I find that hard to believe. But I'll say this much. If he done it he sure hadn't been loafin' around with no harem of mares! This matched race stuff can be murder, mister."

The only jock worrying me was him. If this seems paradoxical I suppose it was because, from the very inception of this rags-to-riches venture, I had been too engrossed with the mechanics of my purpose to take a square look at what I'd set out to do. In the finders-keepers way of a kid I'd been looking on Villalobos as legitimate prey, a prize to be snatched by the first gent to spot it.

The race I regarded as a sporting proposition, a calculated risk, the very nature of its challenge inclining me to view with feelings tantamount to horror the exposure of myself before Ybarra as a cheat. I would almost sooner lose the race.

I tell you by jingo, I felt actually ill.

Considering the man with a sick repugnance, I beckoned him off to one side out of hearing. Put a straight ride on him and whatever Dorrus promised. I'll double it—understand?"

Did his lip curl a little? At any rate, he nodded.

I turned away, took one step and, nervously, swung back. My stomach crawled with loathing. "If you win" I said, "you get $100 bonus."

Shirl met me at the door. He had never looked so rankly suspicious, or more viciously determined. One arm slashed out to fist my shirt, his other hand dug a gun in my belly. "You wouldn't be crossin' me up would you, sport?"

His grip made it almost impossible to answer. His mean little eyes never left my face. "I been watchin' you out there. What kinda deal did you make with that twirp?"
I could feel the shivers banging through my knees. I gulped out the truth—I couldn't hardly get it out fast enough. Dorrus glared, grip tightening. "You expect me to swaller that?"
Like some berserk ape, one handed, cheeks darkening, he hauled me up until my feet wouldn't touch. The crazy, eyes bulging way he shook me I figured everything inside would come loose. With a snarl he slammed me into a porch post.

I saw the gun coming up. "Ask him!" I cried.

He stood wincingly still for what seemed an eternity, pinning me with the wild shine of his eyes. I thought my spine had been sprung. I scarcely dared breathe.

Then he said, stepping back, "Tell me now how we go about takin' Villalobos."

It had not been my intention to go into this with him until the time came to seize the place. It certainly wasn't in my best interest to uncover so early the hole-card of what I'd found out about bancos, to explain how the river was going to drop that hacienda right into our laps. But the look of that glare held a compelling persuasiveness.

I yapped, and his scowl grew uglier with every word that tumbled out.

How could he appear so bitterly affronted? I cried: "Don't you believe me?"

Whatever I had looked for it certainly wasn't this. Ramming the hard shine of that pistol into his holster he stomped off without a word.

I got a mount from the day pen, set off for the hacienda.

But as I rode, the resentments he'd fed with this high-handed treatment broke through my confusions to curl like flames around the personal estimate of self I had cherished. This tottering image began to tarnish and shrivel in the acid memory of the fright I'd been given, babe-helpless in that terrible grip.

And I saw in these shambles a few things clearer, but the brightest thing inside me was anger. Like a wind it sang in widening clamor and thus I came to the river and through the sunset shine of it discovered, dark above the far shore, a solitary horseman motionless as rock.

One arm, as I peered, moved to beckon me over.

Not until I rode halfway across did I discover the beckoner was Linda.

Ben Burton

Ben Burton is head football coach in his first year at Hope. He is replacing John Pierce, who took over as assistant coach at Crossett.

As a tackle at Magnolia High School, where Coach Burton graduated, he made all-district two years, all-state one. He also played baseball.

He began college at Magnolia A&M, then graduated from Arkansas State Teachers at Conway. He lettered all four years and was also an all-conference tackle. He completed his Master's at the University of Arkansas.

Burton was coach at De Queen for three years, having championship teams in 1951 and '53. He then took over at Malvern for three years, having champion teams in '55 and '56. After that he headed Hooks, Texas for five years. He had a 41-13-1 overall record there with champions in '57, '60 and '61, the '61 team going to the state quarter-finals.

He then became assistant coach at Port Arthur, where he had a 9-1 record, losing a conference game by a margin of two points. He has coached seven district champions and has a record of 99-29-4.

Coach Burton has been married to the former LaVern Bold-

Magnolia to Have About Average

Nothing better . . . nothing worse. That seems to be the way to sum up the Magnolia Panthers for this year. Bringing back eleven lettermen and nine starters, Coach Joe Thomason faces trouble with his line, which has an average weight eight pounds under the backfield. He will also have problems building a good running attack.

Running from a standard T formation, a slow back field has little hopes of being outstanding. Senior Mickey Christian 180-pounder has been pulled from fullback to do quarterbacking duties. For the two halfbacks, Dorsey Bearden, 170, and Danny Dodson, 175 have been drafted.

As for the line—no ends. The rest of the line is small and shal-low. The big man is tackle Mack Allwhite, 175. He should be good on defense. The other tackle is Joe Nipper. Key center is 6'-2", 180-pound center Paul Whit-loy. The Panthers use a 6-2-2 defense.

Magnolia had a 1-4-1 league record to hold down 4AA cellar position. They were 5-5-1 overall.

Bobettes Dedicated to School Spirit

The Hope Bobettes is an organization that exists expressly to foster school spirit, and per- ing of DeQueen for 12 years. They have three children, Boni, 8; Bruce, 6; Brooks, 4.

After having been in Texas for seven years, Coach Burton says he is "delighted to be back home."

Frank Francis

In his first year on the Bobcat coaching staff is Frank Francis. Coach Francis was a graduate of Hot Springs High School and of Ouachita College.

Attending Lake Side High in Hot Springs for two years, Francis lettered in football, basket-ball and track. He made all-state in his junior year as halfback. For his senior year he transferred to Hot Springs High. He made honorable mention for all-state there.

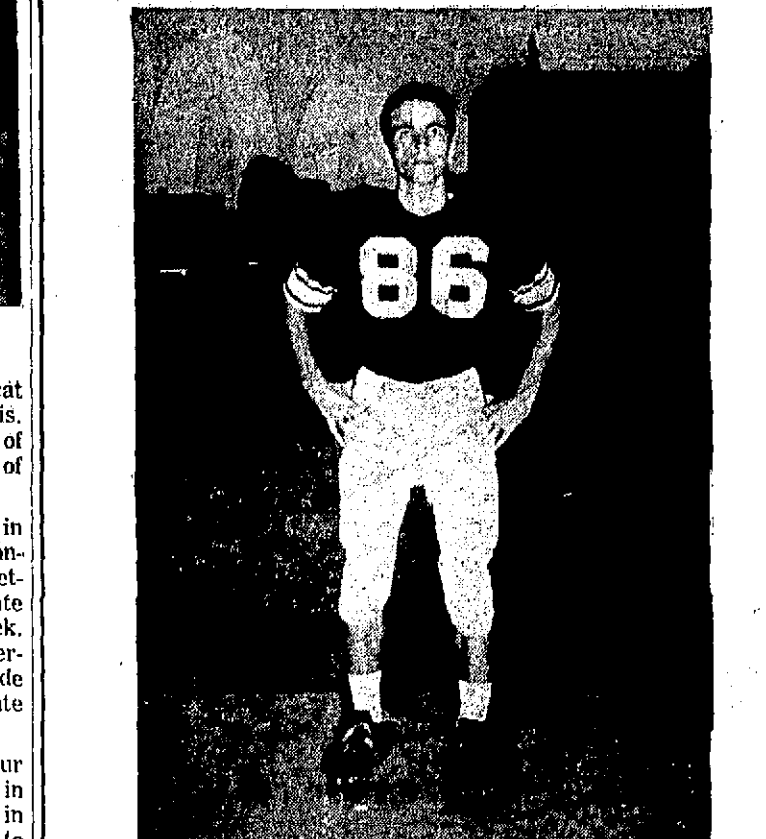

At Ouachita, he lettered four years at halfback. He majored in physical education, minored in history. This year, in addition to coaching duties, he will teach world history, geography and economics.

He was married three years ago to the former Miss Tonia Wynette, who is now a senior at Ouachita.

Arkadelphia Looking for a Good Year

Headed by Coach Gene Fletcher the Arkadelphia Badgers are looking forward to a big year, after a rather puny 3-8 record last year. Fletcher has fifteen lettermen and eight starters.

Big hopes have been pinned on 155-pound quarterback Raboo Rogers, a dependable signal-caller who can either run or throw with considerable skill. Halfback David Kuyper will also be depended upon heavily. This fast senior was all-district choice last year. 165-pound fullback Larry Nix should add some punch to the Badger attack.

The nucleus of the line will be formed around tackles Bill Hanes, 6'-3" tall and weighing 195 pounds, and Kenny Haltom, 185-pounder, and 160-pounder speedy guard Cleon Fite. Returning letterman end is Don Kinger.

The Badgers are relying on the speed and on a rough defense. This could make them a good bet to take District 7A.

Several years ago Arkadelphia was in District 4AA, but the going got a little rough, so they dropped down to weaker Class A competition.

Appointment

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus notified E. Carlton Chambers of Jacksonville Monday of his appointment to the Board of Trustees at Henderson State Teachers College at Arkadelphia.

Chambers succeeds M. H. Russell of Crossett, who left the board to become president of the college. Chambers' appointment expires Jan. 14, 1966. He is a 1949 graduate of Henderson.

Junior High head football coach for three years has been Billy Mitchell. He is also boys head basketball coach. In four years he has had two district championship teams and one second place.

Coach Mitchell graduated from Hope High in 1951. He was a three year basketball letterman. After going to Southern State, he went to Henderson, where he graduated. He has a math major, a P.E. minor. He is now doing graduate work at East Texas State Teachers College in Commerce.

In addition to his coaching, Mitchell teaches geometry and business math.

He has been married to the former Vivian Tonnemaker of Hope for three years.

Nhu Most Powerful and Most Hated

An AP News-Picture Package By ROY ESSOYAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Ngo Dinh Nhu, the man behind the throne in South Viet Nam, lamented recently that "if anybody's oppressed in this country, it's the government."

A month later, Nhu persuaded his brother, President Ngo Dinh Diem, to declare martial law while Nhu personally ordered troops to storm pagodas and break the back of a Buddhist opposition movement that threatened the family regime.

In the wake of this crackdown two weeks ago, Nhu emerged as possibly the most powerful — and most hated — figure in South Viet Nam. He has dominated his brother Diem since their youth, although Diem at 62 is 10 years his senior.

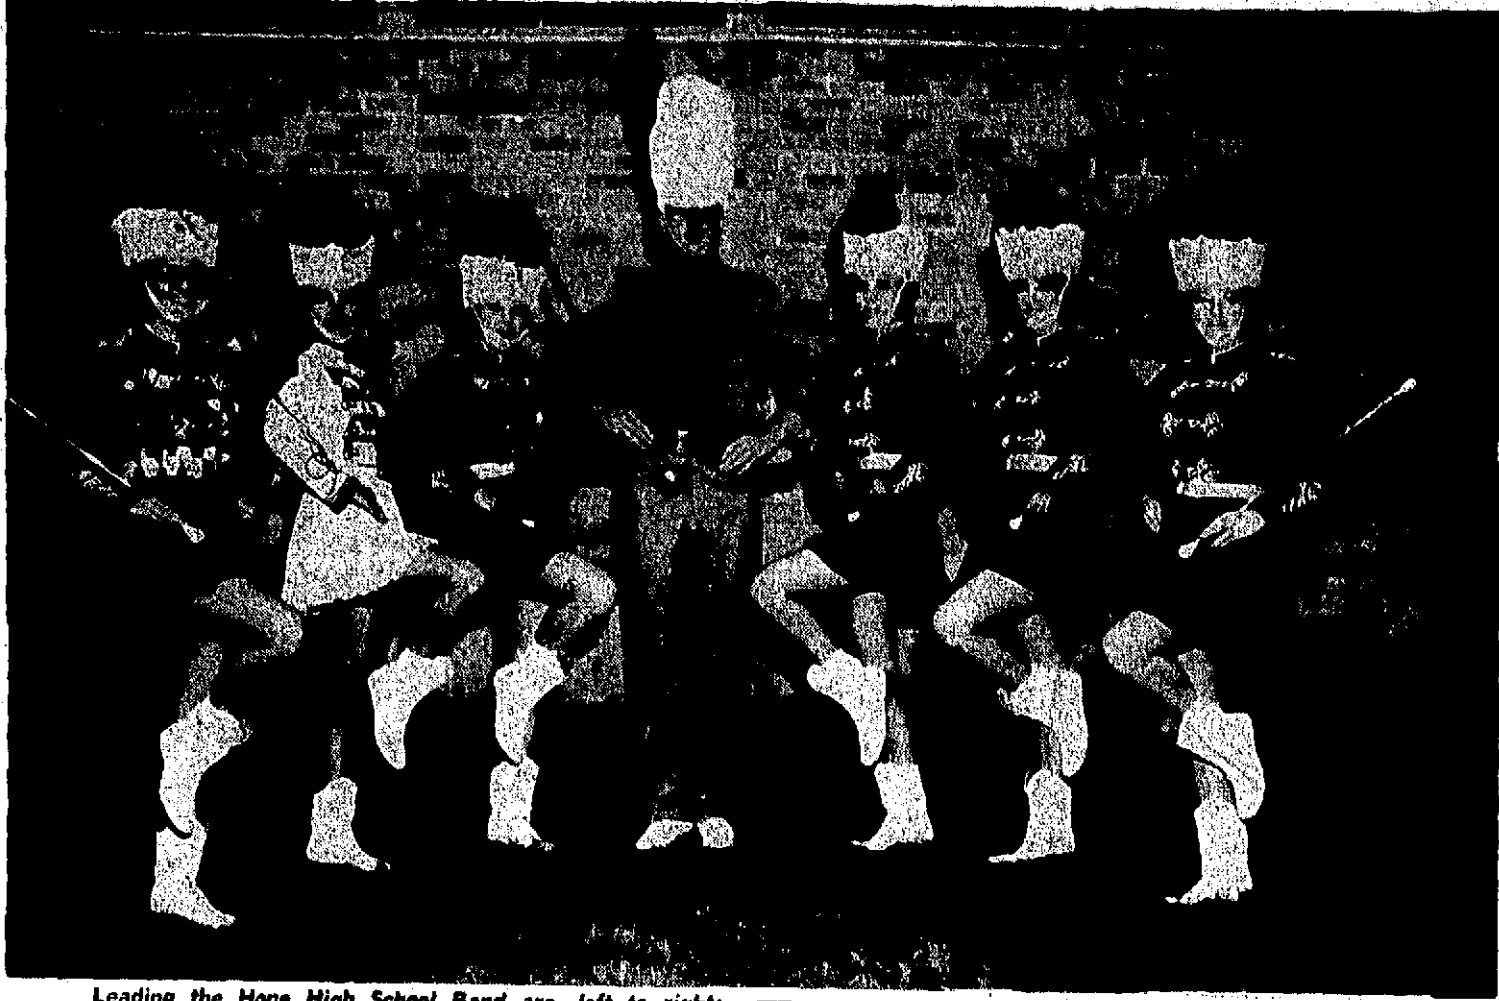

Nhu likes to tell visitors that he is a much misunderstood man. His is a many-faceted personality — mild-mannered, soft-spoken and tough.

Discussing the danger of a possible attempt to overthrow the government, Nhu told a group of military leaders last month there were only two ways of handling a coup — "You smash it like an egg before it is hatched or you join it and exploit it."

Nhu is violently anti-Communist. He has said the only solution for the Red China problem is to atom-bomb Peking.

But an American who has known him for years says Nhu is captivated by Communist techniques and successes.

Communist expressions such as "revisionism" often creep into his conversation.

One of his pet projects is a regular Friday afternoon "self-criticism" session, a Marxist-type confession for military men and civil servants. It is aimed, Nhu says, at "sweeping all rotten elements out of the government machinery in order to build a happy, equal and free society."

Nhu has a great regard for U.S. industrial and mechanical ingenuity. But he makes no secret of his contempt for American democratic and political processes.

Nhu's favorite headgear for relaxing outdoors is a baseball cap. He also favors American sport shirts and casual sweaters. He likes to play the typically American role of fond husband and boyish father.

Americans, Nhu says, are naive. They are "intoxicated" — a favorite phrase of his — and misinformed by the press. He says Americans don't understand Asians or Communists.

Nhu is reported to have said he would make a deal with his country's arch enemy, Communist North Viet Nam, before he would bow to American pressure. He has repeatedly indicated he has contacts with North Viet Nam.

Gurdon Will Not Lack in Experience

With twelve lettermen and six starters back, Coach Pete Prewett expects something a little bit better than the 4-6 record the Gurdon Go-Devils had last year under veteran coach Grady Cathey, who resigned to take a position as principal at Waldo. Prewett was assistant coach under Cathey five years ago, but stepped down to go into private business. Thus, has been out of the profession for four years.

Prewett inherited a rather good quarterback in Roy (Boo) Karr, a junior who can throw the short pass, although his height, or lack of it, keeps him from tossing the long one, 180-pound junior Ed Woods, in the halfback slot, is a perfect receiver for Karr's short pill. He won the Class A 100-yard dash in 10.2. The key to the running game, however, will be a 160-pound junior fullback, Ronnie Strickland, who poses a breakaway threat.

A not so hefty line doesn't sport any lettermen ends, but Gary Tarpley, 200-pound tackle, guards Wendell Plyler, 150, and Charles Smith, 140, screen, able to take on their share of the load.

Though not outstanding, Gurdon does manage to be at least a contender for the heavily contested Region 7A crown.

Plugs for an Upturn in the Market

NEW YORK (AP)—More often than not the stock market turns down in September. But this time many brokers are plugging for an upturn. They think times are getting ripe for the small investor to return.

The little fellow has been wary since he got burned in the May-June crash of 1962. But those who think he may be tempted back in force to the market now point to a number of things.

Slowly rising prices in scattered industrial materials and consumer goods could build public suspicion that inflation may not be as dead as the money managers would like to think — and rising prices usually spur stock buying.

Congress seems set sooner or later to hand out some goodies—a tax cut for both business and individuals, more government spending in a variety of lines, all designed to beef up the economy.

International affairs, in spite of the many trouble spots, are calmer than a year or two ago—Khrushchev talks more friendly, whether he means it or not; the chicken war between the United States and the Common Market may be compromised before it breaks out into full-fledged trade war.

Industrial statistics and business predictions are more than usually optimistic for the season, which would make numerous companies (and their stocks) look good to investors.

Factory sales have risen to a new high and, more important for the future, manufacturers' new orders have increased. Still farther in the future is the good prospect tied to the reported rise in August and July of machine tool orders, meaning industry is preparing for expected more activity.

Retail sales continue to gain modestly. This, along with increased installment credit, shows the consumer to be in a buying mood still.

High auto sales and output build hopes for a third straight year of prosperity for that key industry, which would be an unprecedented thing.

Professor Defects to W. Germany

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—Prof. Hans Mayer, East German national prize winner and one of the most prominent Soviet-biased "liberal" intellectuals, has defected to West Germany.

Here on a lecture tour, Mayer announced Monday night he will not return to Leipzig University where he has taught literature for 15 years and gained an international reputation. In 1935, he won the East German government's national prize for his works on classical and modern literature. Since the East German Communist regime tightened its reins, he had fallen into official disgrace but his defection is expected to have a bombshell effect among intellectuals in the Soviet bloc.

Mayer, 56, is a close friend of many leading Eastern writers.

Cheerleaders Keep Yelling for Bobcats

Being responsible for good school spirit can be a big order to fill. But a group of eight girls known as cheerleaders fill the bill with a little enthusiasm to spare.

These pretty, vivacious young ladies go above and beyond the call of duty to fulfill their jobs with cries of, "Come on team, let's get 'em!" Whether behind the hot lights of a pep rally or in freezing rain, these girls are always there, smiling, and forever "Boosting the Bobcats."

Headed by co-captains Diane Ellis and Suzy Waller, this team consists of Cissie Ellis, Jan Gaines, Margie Herndon, Myrle Cox, Susan Rogers, and Diane Purtle. Faculty advisor is Miss Mary Roy Moses.

Recently, at a camp for cheerleaders on the campus of Sam Houston State Teachers College in Huntsville, Texas, these girls took first place over all other participants.

Dist. Champs Hit Hard by Graduation

Last year, Camden Fairview fielded the first District 4AA championship team in the history of that school. The Cardinals had a 5-1 league record, with a 7-4 overall. This year, however, the prospects for a team quite this good seem to have disappeared. Coach Huie Lindsay lost twelve seniors to graduation. He has eight lettermen and only three starters returning.

Fairview's split T offense will center around a very impressive halfback, 175-pound senior Guy Teel, a hard runner and possible all-state choice. He runs the hundred in 11.4. Quarterback will be Bob Bush, a 175-pounder who also plays defense.

The Cardinals use a monsterr defense. The line is big and relatively fast. It centers around such as Larry Gortney, 190-pound senior who plays tackle and defensive end, and all-district center and noseman Ronnie Keistar, 180. The line will average about 180.

Although Camden Fairview certainly won't be as strong as last year, they still can't be counted out.

Race Trials Started in Plaquemine

By BEN THOMAS

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP) — Trials for James Farmer of Chicago and 15 other Negroes opened today in this racially troubled Mississippi River town in southern Louisiana.

Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, and the others were charged with five counts of disturbing the peace as a result of Negro demonstrations Aug. 19.

Mayor Charles Schnebelen presided at the trial in the small courtroom located in the center of this town of 7,500 population.

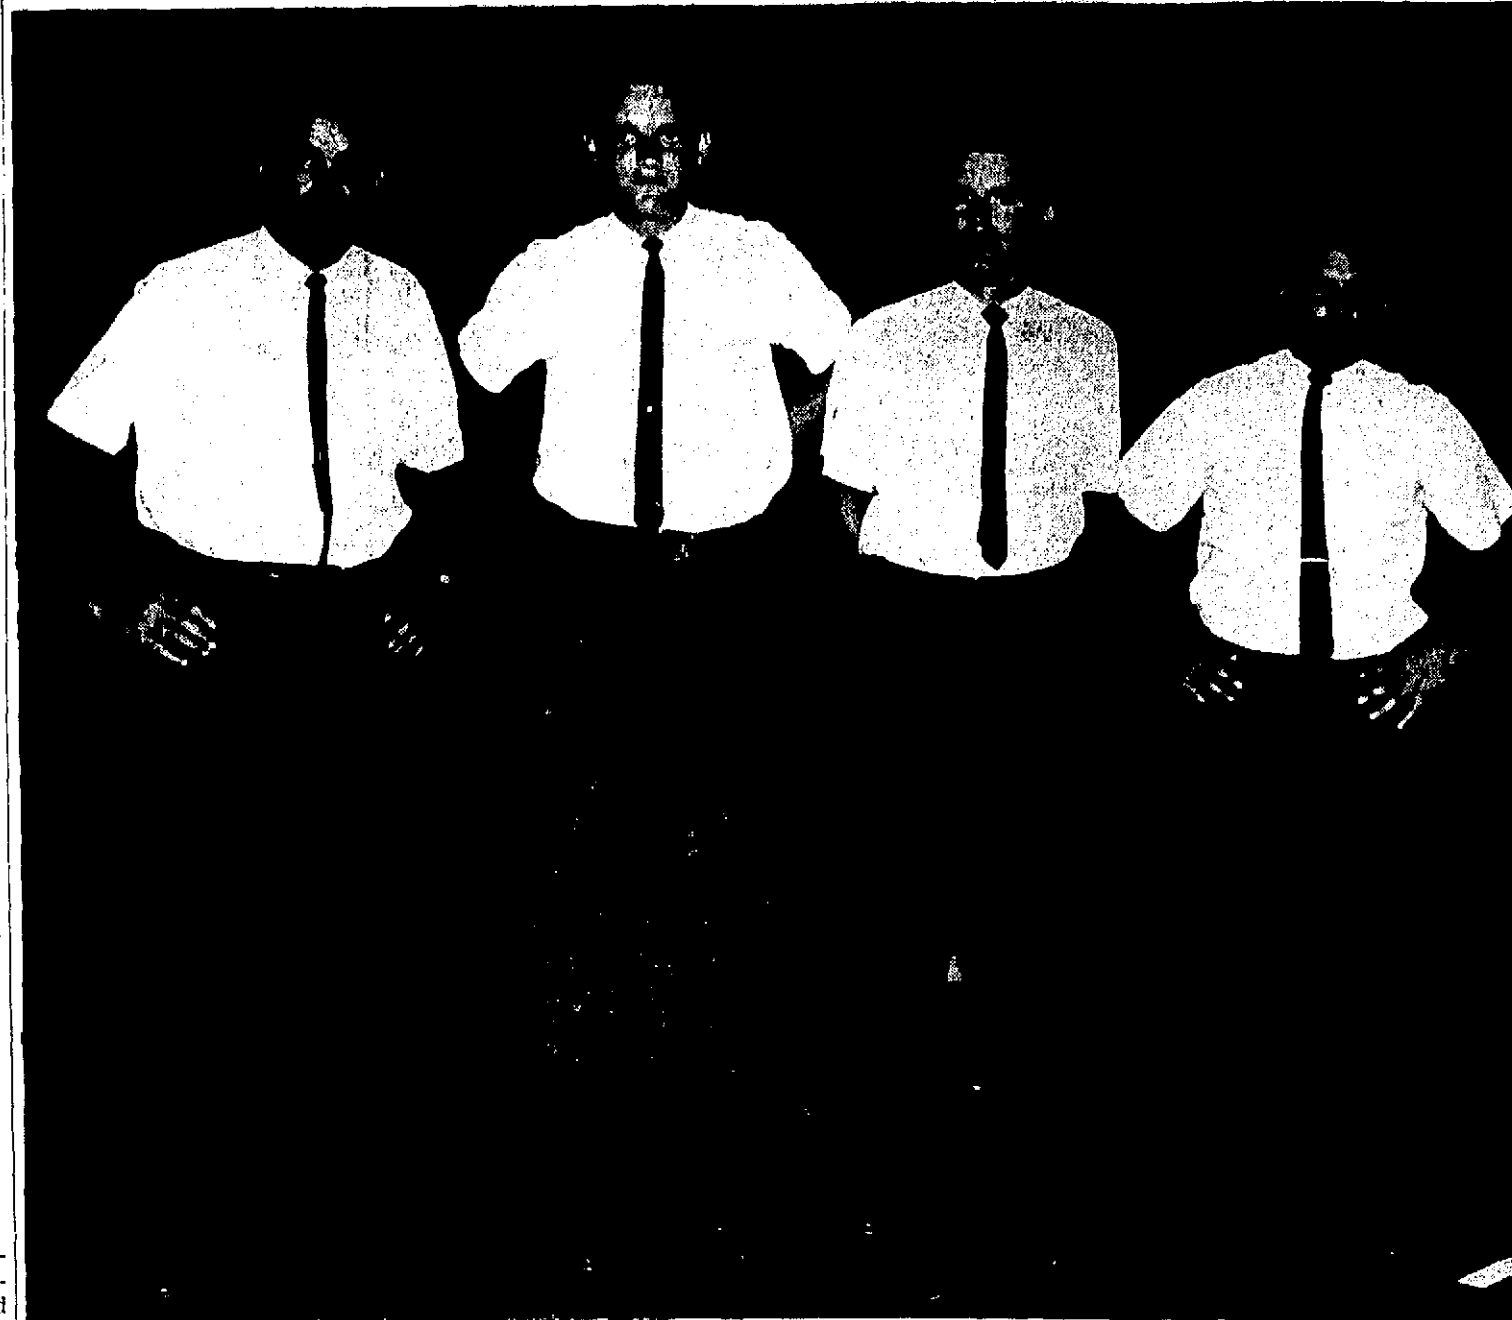

All six benches in the courtroom were packed — with both white and Negro spectators — when the trials got under way.

The Negroes came up for trial one at a time.

The first two tried were the Rev. J.W. Green, a Baptist minister, and Willie L. Banks Jr., both of Plaquemine.

Schnebelen dismissed four of the five counts, then convicted

He sentenced them to 30 days in jail or fines of $100.

After each conviction, attorneys for the Negroes filed notice of appeal.

Monk Seeks Refuge, Is Turned Away

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A young Buddhist monk sought refuge in the U.S. Embassy today but was politely told he could not be admitted.

The monk apparently sought to join three other Buddhists, including a top organizer of the Buddhist antigovernment movement, who were granted asylum in the embassy Saturday.

The latest applicant for asylum arrived in gray robes on foot at the embassy chancery. An embassy official explained politely, "We're just too full."

The young monk apparently was not pursued by the police, and one of the conditions of political asylum is that the refugee must be "hotly pursued."

The latest refugee thanked Marine guards and officials anyway, made the traditional lotus flower salute, and walked away. He was not molested as long as he was in sight, and disappeared around a corner.

On Monday, the military governor of Saigon, Brig. Gen. Ton That Dinh, told a press conference he intended to demand the return of the three monks in refuge at the embassy. But the State Department in Washington said it planned to continue giving them asylum.

New friction developed in U.S.-South Vietnamese relations because the three monks were given asylum and a government-sponsored newspaper accused the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency of plotting to overthrow President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime.

Negroes at Memphis Picket School

MEMPHIS (AP)—Negro pickets protesting a double shift program marched in front of 5 all-Negro high schools today as Memphis entered its third year of school integration on a sharply stepped-up basis.

The pickets, posted by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, urged Negro pupils to ignore the staggered classroom hours and attend school only during normal hours — from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

About two dozen pickets turned out at one school and school officials said "quite a few" pupils were absent from early classes.

Lesser numbers of pickets patrolled the other schools where officials said most of students were on hand for their regular classes.

The NAACP said it considers the staggered - hour program "a means of perpetuating racial segregation." But the city school board said the program is necessary to relieve crowded classrooms. The board said it would be extended to a white high school next year.

Meanwhile, the city opened 14 previously all - white or predominantly all-white schools to 258 Negroes, thus extending its gradual desegregation plan through the first four grades. Three grades previously were integrated.

The number represented a sharp increase over the 53 Negro children who attended seven integrated schools last year and the 13 who entered 4 all-white schools in the first year of desegregation.

The first year of integration was carried out under massive police guard. By contrast, only four patrolmen were posted at each integrated school today plus a roving patrol car assigned to the general area.

There were no incidents. The double shift program calls for some pupils reporting an hour earlier or an hour later than the regular starting time of 8:30 a.m.

William D. Galbreath, board of education president, said students not reporting for classes at their scheduled times would be considered absent and given zeroes for their grades.

James Wilson, America's first globe maker, lived to be 92. He spent his last years building a planetarium which, by cranking, showed the earth revolving around the sun.

Bucks Are Fast, Hope's Marching Band Adds Color and Spirit to Game

Mean and Out to Win Title

They're mean; they're fast; they're big; they're tough; and they're out to get Hope. That's the way to describe the Smack-over Buckaroos.

What makes them so great? The likes of Mike Law—a six foot 190-pound tackle who has been described as "everything from" . . . the best all-around lineman in the district . . . to "best in state."

Not that Law is all that Smack-over has. 200-pound center Gerald Leggett can run the hundred in 10.8. Tackle David Corey, 6'-3" and 218 pounds, has started for the past two years. Halfback Tommy Taylor, 180-pounder who received his first high school letter in the ninth grade, runs the 100-yard dash in 10.2.

And that isn't all. 175-pound quarterback Tom House is excellent when either on the sprint-out or dropping back for the long toss. Very creditable ends Dale Lotz, 180, and Wally Movehead, also 180, can snag most things coming their ways. Both also play tough defense.

Fifty-three year old Coach Guy Hays, who incidentally wants to coach twenty more years, says that right halfback, 166-pound Ted Roberts, runs the dive play "better than anyone I've ever seen." He also takes care of kick-offs, punting and extra points.

Perhaps Smackover's most serious weakness, if they have one, will be depth. They play AAA El Dorado and AA Fairview before taking on the Bobcats. If anyone is injured in either of these games, they might be hard to replace.

Smackover had a 4-7-1 chart last season, and finished sixth in the district with a 2-4. Hope beat them in an exciting 20-7 game that was much contested in the stands as well as on the field. Hope made two touchdowns in the final minutes of play.

Club to Hear About Perry Co.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Rep. Virgil Butler of Independence County is expected to discuss Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsen today in a speech to a Little Rock civic club.

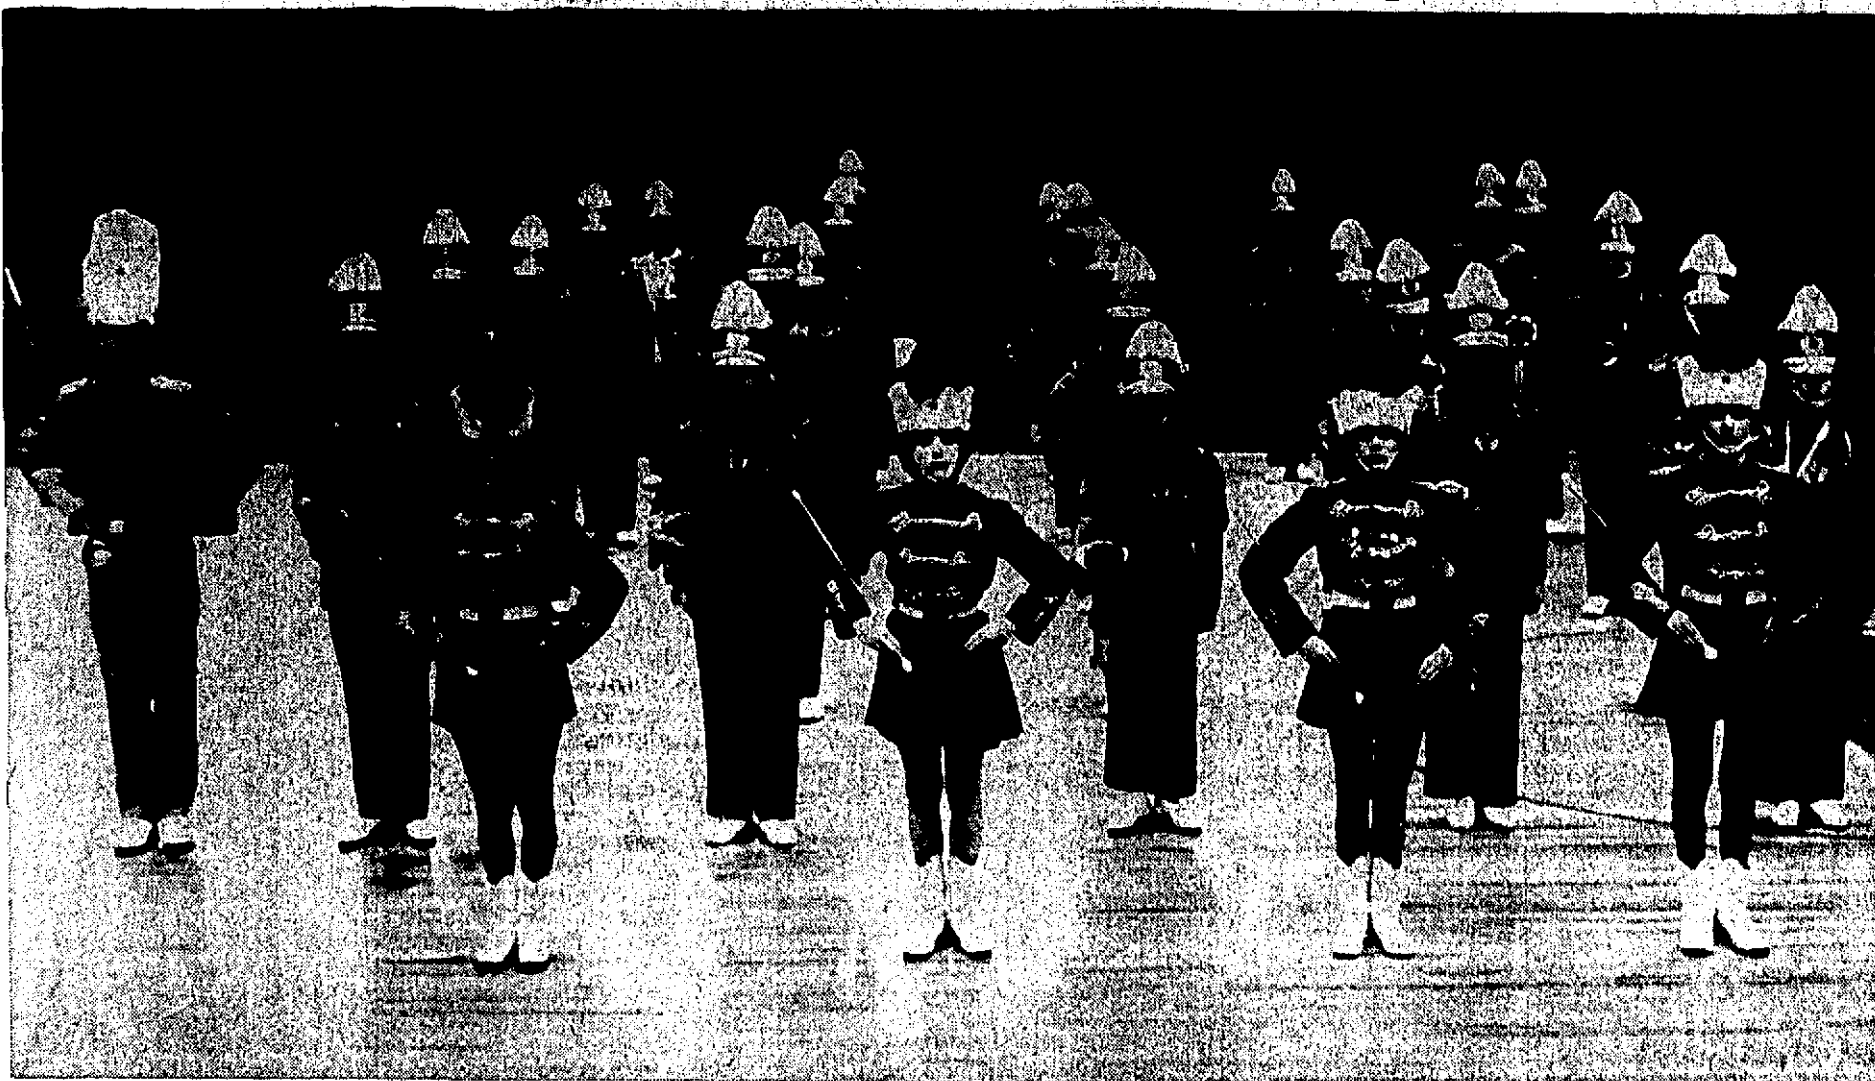

Van Dalsen spoke to the same club a week ago, criticized the American Association of University of Women for its lobbying activities at the state legislature, and made a remark that set off a furor in his county.

He said that when Perry County women meddle in things they know little about, they are given more work. If that doesn't keep them busy, Van Dalsen said, then the women are kept pregnant and barefoot.

A group of Perry County women invited Van Dalsen to make a public apology Saturday night at the county court house. He declined the invitation but said he would apologize in person to any woman who was offended by his remark.

Van Dalsen has blamed the controversy on Republicans, saying they hope to make a political gain from what he intended to be nothing more than a joke.

Booster Club Important to Bobcats

The purpose of the Hope Booster Club is to provide for further athletics which the school can not afford. This may range anywhere from buying soap for the Bobcats to scopes for the Little Club.

This organization composed of about one-hundred and fifty local business men, spends about $500 annually. This money is earned through membership fees and the concession stand in Jones Field House. The money goes for such worthwhile projects as erecting the sign over the gate at Hammons Stadium, filming the Bobcat games, providing for the isometric and weight programs at high school, and purchasing the sevenman blocking sled.

Officers for this year are: Bob Westbrook, president; Wesley Huddleston, vice-president; and Jamie Russell, secretary-treasurer. The club is in the middle of a membership drive; and interested parties should contact one of the above officers.

The civic-minded members of this club received absolutely nothing in return for their completely untiring and unselfish devotion except the satisfaction of seeing the youngsters in this area benefit from their efforts. Our hats are off to these gentlemen, without whom the Hope High Athletic program would not be what it is today.

Leopards to Lack Good Offensive

A stronger defense might help Malvern improve on its 2-3-1 conference performance last year, but a weak running attack should keep them from doing anything spectacular. Leopard coach, Bill Hunt, will have five starters and eighteen lettermen on which to build his new team.

160-pound quarterback, Phil Clem, should be average. Halfback will be held down by three good boys, Steve Efrid, 135, Jerry Gullett, also a 155-pounder, and Steve Harmon, 140. They should be able to make it around the outside. Going up the middle will be Leopard fullback, 170-pound Rob Wilson.

The lightweight ends are Larry Voss, 138, and Mike Harbour, 145-pounds. The sprint-out pass could make, or break Malvern.

In the line, which averages 164 pounds, will be tackles Jerry Petty, 6'-2", 210-pound junior, and 185-pound senior, Mike Kent. Guards will be Jim Kriigel, and Phillip Tate, both 160-pounders.

Last year Malvern had a 3-7-1 record and took fourth in the District.

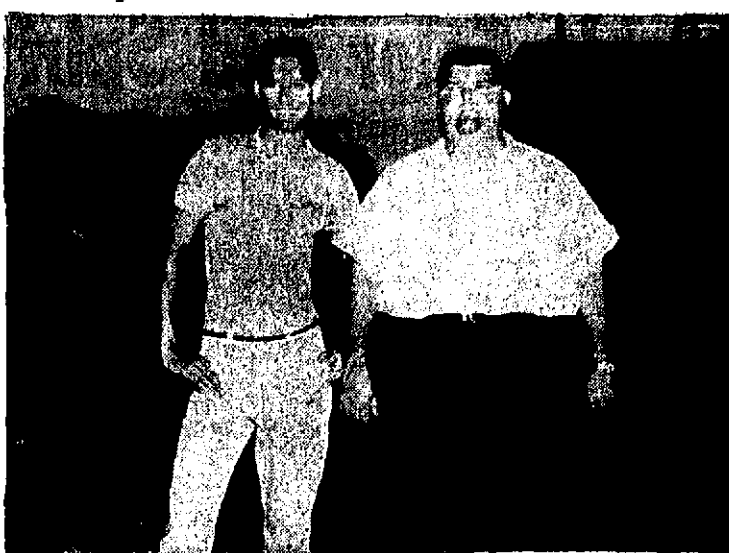

Experience Could Slow Nashville

Led by Coach Dwight Jones, last year's Nashville Scrappers took District 7A and ended with a 10-1 record, losing the last game of the season 13-0 to Hope. This year, the Scrappers may have a little trouble duplicating this feat. With seven lettermen and three starters, there is a big shortage of experience and also little speed.

The best prospect among the Scrappers seems to be 155-pound senior Mike Bratton, who switches to quarterback from his halfback position, where he was a topflight ball carrier. Otherwise Nashville may have a very slow attack. Danny Ray will have to be pulled out of his guard position to fill in as fullback.

Lettermen ends are Roy Blakeley and Dennis Glasgow; tackles are Steve Lovell and Larry Holliday; and guards are Ronnie Woodruff and Jerry Conateer. This line will be fifteen pounds heavier per man than last year but it will also be slower.

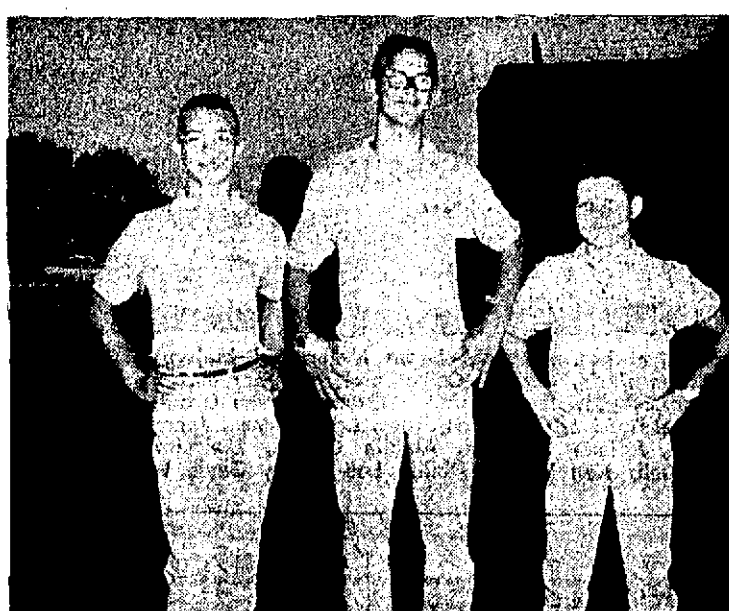

They Are Bobcat Trainers

In his fifth year as trainer for the Bobcats is Edward White, standing right. A teacher in the Jr.-Sr. high school, White is a graduate of Southern State College in Magnolia.

Moving up to trainer from manager is George Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Teddy Jones. George has been senior manager for two years and was Bobkitten manager for two years.

They Do the Dirty Work

They do the dirty work. There can be no more apt way to describe the duties of the managers. This group is composed of Bill Coffee, Mike Marcum, and Ken McMurrugh. It has been said that they do more work for less recognition than any other group in athletics.

This group has a daily schedule that is long and hard, filled with toil and trouble. It begins early in the morning and ends late at night. Consisting of such chores as being in charge of the dressing rooms, mending injured players, lugging equipment about, washing more than twenty loads of washing each week. For out of town games, they pack all equipment necessary, load it on the bus, drag it to the dressing rooms, then account for it after the game, pack it for the trip back, drag it to the bus again, and after getting it back home, get it to the dressing room again unpack and resort it again before going home. That's a job.

What do they get in return? A jacket at the end of the season, the satisfaction of a job well done, and the knowledge that they did their part for the Bobcats.

Panthers to Depend on Speed

This year the Camden Panthers will have to center their hopes around the three returning starters off a 6-4-1 team that took second place in District 4AA with a 4-1-1 record.

Coach Roy Lebetter has centered is offensive hopes mainly on 150-pound senior halfback, John Jordan. Able to run the 100-yard dash in 10.5, he poses quite a breakaway threat. Sharing most of the offense with Jordan will be halfback Robert King, 170-pound junior. 195-pound fullback is David Brodnax. The Panthers will run from the T and double winged T formations.

On the Camden line will be the Wilcox brothers, both tackles. Roy weighs 200. Ray, 183. Guard is junior Tommy Bensberg, 175. Center and linebacker, 170-pound Jim Coleman, will carry a lot of weight.

Last year Camden had the best defensive record in the league, giving up only sixty-five points to their opposition, twenty-one of them to Hope. Lacking the size and experience of last year, the Panthers will have to depend on speed, still will have a fight on their hands to even be among the top few in their rough, tough district.

Prospects at DeQueen Not So Good

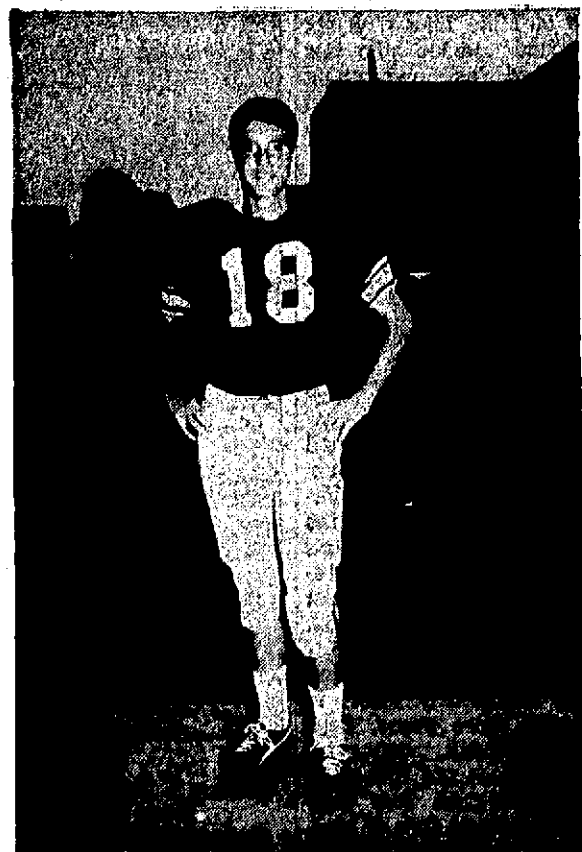

Prospects for the DeQueen Leopards are rather bleak this year. After the resignation Coach Jack Bell to take a job as principal, Don Hubbard, who won the District 7B East title last year at Bearden, took forty-four candidates, with little weight or experience, no speed, and only eight lettermen.

"It can't get much weaker," said Bell. "This season could be worse than 1962." In '62 they had a 3-8 record.

Best hope seems to be tackle Tony Beltrani, 195-pound senior. He has lettered the last two years. Guard Ernie Merrell, 160, and center Don Shirley, also are good linemen.

Bob McKinley, a 140-pounder, is the returning quarterback. Halfback should be pretty well filled by Don Shirley, also a letterman. Fullback is Woody White.

Texarkana Is Coming Power of This Area

The Texarkana Razorbacks have gotten tired of being push-overs. Head coach Robert E. "Swede" Lee has started a rehabilitation program. The first step, getting over ninety candidates on the field, was successful. Lee has sixteen lettermen coming back, but twenty-one of the top thirty-three players will be juniors.

The Hogs will be running from a flip-flop winged-T offense, centering around senior fullback David Cooper, a 6', 195-pounder who shifted from guard last season. He runs the hundred in 10.9.

A word of explanation: With a running tailback and a blocking wingback both switching to either side, and even the powerful side of the line sometimes alternating, the flip-flop wing-T is built expressly for power. This is the same type offense that the Texas Longhorns use.

Quarterbacking duties will be shared by two juniors, Freddie Green, a 6'-3" 175-pounder, does a fair job as passer and Gene Lott, 5'-8" 160-pounder, is a flashy runner.

Tailback will probably be shared by Phillip Crane and Joe Blagg. Although Blagg can't run the hundred in less than 11.5, he averaged five yards each on his twenty carries last year. He does it on guts.

Lettermen ends include Mickey Head, 180-pound junior, and Travis Giles, a converted tailback. Giles runs the hundred in 10.0. Tackles are Teddy Miller, 185, Happy Grace, 190, and Darryl Martindale, 205. Guards include Frank Buchanan, 165, Guy Sanders, 165, and Bobby, 160. Some Whitehead, 175, shifted from end to center.

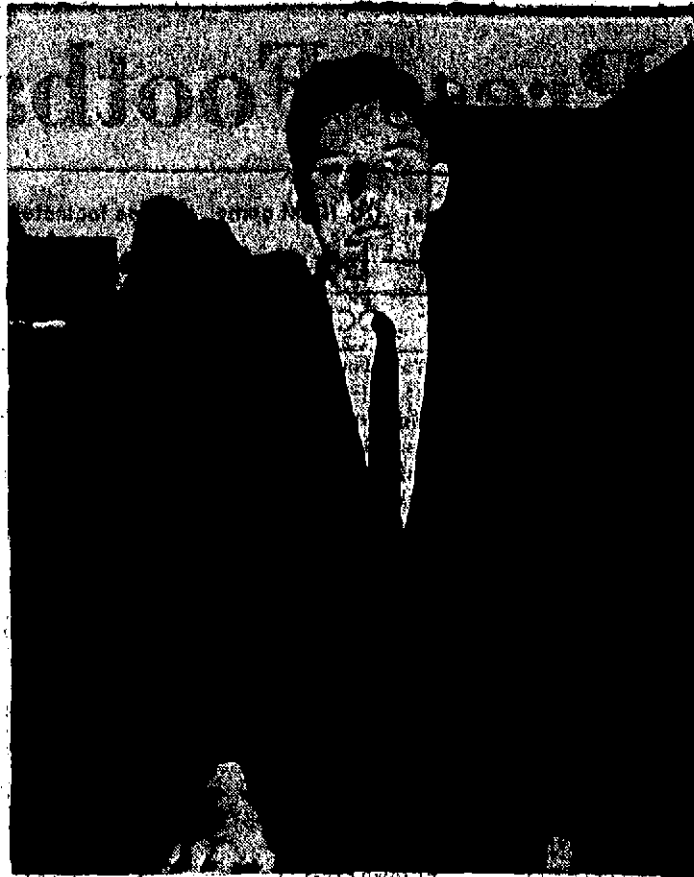

Patterson and Clay will try for the monster post in the Hogs' monster defense. Cooper, Hurst, and Crane are the best line backs.

Although Texarkana has improved, they have their problems. Their line is exceptionally quick, but light. So, their 1-10-1 record last year should be bettered, but not by too much.

Hays to Speak

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Brooks Hays, former Arkansas congressman and now a special assistant to President Kennedy, will speak Sept. 13 at the quarterly meeting of the Churchmen of Western Arkansas.

Writes About the Bobcats

CARTER HARDAGE

In his second year as Hope Star Sportswriter is Carter Hardage. Carter is the son of Mrs. A. L. Hardage and the late Dr. Hardage. He is a sixteen year old junior.

Carter is vice president of the student council, member of the Key Club, F.T.A., and an honor student. He is also a member of the First Baptist Church.

Carter wrote all the articles about the Bobcats and their opponents in this edition.

Morrilton in Rebuilding Process

The Morrilton Devil Dogs were noted as having their best team in years, but that was before they lost 74 of their backfield by moving to other states. All that is left is quarterback Don Dixon, a junior and an excellent passer.

The big men in the line are tackles Mickey Boyle, 240-pounder, and Bennie Corey, no smaller, at 200. They are two-year lettermen. Ends are Don Resecker, 179, and Wayne Sroczynski, 163. Don Henley, 215, will be center and Ronnie Boudra and Benny Stobaugh, 170, should fill the guard positions. However, Sroczynski and Stobaugh may be pulled out of the line to play in the completely vacant backfield.

Speed is also nothing to brag about for the Dogs. They had a 4-6-1 team last year and a 1-3-1 league record, to finish seventh in Region 3AA. They should do a little better this year.

Savannah Integration Is Quiet

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Public schools were integrated quietly here today as 14 Negro pupils took their places in class in two formerly white high schools.

Originally, 20 had been accepted but only seven Negroes were admitted at Savannah High School, where 13 had registered earlier.

School officials had not immediate explanation as to why only seven were admitted there.

At Groves High in suburban Savannah, seven Negroes went to seven separate classrooms.

Groves High has about 1,100 white pupils and Savannah High has about 2,600.

Although there had been reports that a white group would attempt to bar the Negroes from the schools, no such effort was made. All unauthorized persons were barred from the two schools.

New Coaches Hopeful at Crossett

Jack Robey, coach at Class A Prescott for three years, now takes over the head job at Crossett, but with it he also takes on some problems. Inheriting only eleven lettermen and two starters from a 4-6 team that was basically defense minded, Robey has a tough job building up a good offense. The Eagles, who are usually known for their speed, are rather short on it this year.

A large part of the offensive game will fall on 165-pound senior halfback Tommy Smith, who can run fifty yards in six seconds flat. He poses an important threat. Quarterbacking will be the job of letterman David Young. Although hampered by his 5'-7" stature, he can throw a good pass. Also in the backfield will be lightweight Dale Brookings, 145, in the fullback slot. Steve Jackson, 145, and Don Possio, 133, will be in the other halfback position.

On the receiving end of Young's passes will be 5'-11" 160-pounder Bill Meadows, besides Smith.

On the interior line, at tackle will be big Robert Davis, 215, and 175-pound Roger Williams. Guards will be juniors Johnny Deant, 165, and Ronnie Tipper, 170. Center is 170-pound senior Charles Thomas.

The Eagles will depend on a 5-4 defense. They can hope to do little better than last year's fifth place in the conference. They had a 2-4 record.

Rison Man Dies in Auto Wreck

KINGSLAND, Ark. (AP) — Garvin Reed 44, of Rison was killed Monday night when his car collided head-on with a tractor-trailer truck.

The accident occurred one mile north of Kingsland on state Highway 79 in Cleveland County.

The truck driver Herbert B. Brown, 35, of Stanley, Ky., was not seriously hurt.

Grounds.

The Negro pupils all entered the 12th grade on a step-a-year desegregation plan approved by federal courts. The 11th grade will be integrated next year.

Also integrated today for the first time were several Catholic schools. Although Catholic authorities declined to say how many Negroes entered the Parochial schools, one source said there were less than 10.
